THE CAMPMEETINGS.

As many of our readers would like to hear of the Suringfield, and Alton Bay meetings, we would here say: 'Io all appemance a good worke was done, and the name of the Saviour honored by the setting forth of present trath. At Springfield the cheering testimonies and words of rejoicing from those in the light, gave evidence that thore is a shining pathway, and that the speakers where of the class, called, "Ye, brethren."

We shall ever remember with kindly interest, those friends who came from Ocean Grcye. They liad received much light by reading Object and Manmer of our Lord's return, and came, as they said, "to hear more of these blessed truths." Nor shall we ioon forget our friends from Chiropee Fals, who so bountifully supplied our temporal wants,

The tent was piched near where it stood last year, but on ground belonging to the city of Springfield, the use of which was frely given. Notwithstanding the opposition of those who are blinded by prejudice, there was a deep-felt interest from first to last; and many prayers of thanksgiving went up to God, for the priviledge of attending the meeting.

From there we went to Alton Bay, N. H. where many hearty weleomes awaited us. Here we found precions ones, lingigy for the "meat in due season," for the household; and willing to brave all, for the truth.

The meetings were at no time largely attended, yet a very observable feature was the good attention, and chistian spinit manifested, especially by those from wher and various denominations, among whon were some of our nontesurrection brethren. The interest of the mectings were increased by the presence, and assistence of our dear brother Arther P. Alams, of Beverly Mass.

At Alton, we ocenpied the old irromed, and very unexpectediy found the plank and stakes, as we left them lant year.

Although the bitter feeling of our Adrent brethren was very marked, yet the truth cut its way, and many hearts ware led to rejoice in the light now shining on the glorious pian of the ages. And we have reason to believe that God favored the efforts, both at Springficld and Altom Bay.

On breaking up, liusband felt unwilling to leave the ground, perhaps for the last time, without a memento of the old hillside backed by the beaniful grove, and enlivened by the folds of white canvass, and kind faces of friends. So he employed an artist to photograph tent, hillside, and faces; a glance at which, as I now write, recalls to my mind many pleasant recollections.

The investigation of the subject of the atonement, we believe, is giving us a betterknowledge of God and Christ, than any other part of the great "Plan of the Ages."

HARMONY OF THE SCHIPTURES.
Those who believe the Bille must also believe in the absolnte harmony of its teachings; that when understood, all apparently conflicting doctrines must reconcile themselves. Now there are more than twelve hundred sects, each laving some special views which they fully believe are at variance with the views entertained by others. And they each and all, in their doctrinal preaching, bring that class of texts to the foreground upon which their distinctive theology is based, while they modify those Scriptures made prominent by other sects.

With this we have no fault to find; nor do we expect to harmonize, and bring these thousand and one sects into one new organization. For during the gospel age, this confused and mixed conditiou was to obtain. And yet we do believe there is a theolory by which each and every one of these hitherto clashing views can he reconciled; and reconciled, not by modifying one side, and marnifying the other; but in a way that shall give full weight to each class of texts which have been used as the foundation of each and all the different theosogical views. And we believe this advanced. light, now so brightly shining, is due, not to any deep penetration, or worthiness in us, but merely to the fact that the gospel age is ending, and the aclvanced light of the millennial age is now beginning to shine; and that in the millennial age, the " watchmen are to see eye to eje."

Our position, as all readers of the IImsald are alvare, is that we are already in the transition betwcen the gospel, and the millennial ages; and those who have carefully investigated, are aware that there is abundance of proof to substantiate this position. And the fact that so much light is shining on litleerto dark and apparently conflicting Scriptures, is in itself proof of the truth of our general position.

We understand that dacing the present age God, by his Holy Spirit, has been selecting out a people to become the brice of Christ, that is, the "mother church" of the millennial age ;-called, in another place, "the church of the firstbom." That in the incoming age this glorified church, fashioned, in the twinkling of an eye, like unto Christ's giorious bocly, are to be the zulers of this world, "sit with Christ in his throne, even as he overcame, and sat down with his Father in his throne." In other words, they are to be "kings and priests, and reign on the earth." And it is here, during the gospel age, and the selection of this company, " the body of Christ," taken out of "every kindred, and tongue, and peoplo, and hation," (Rev. 5: 10, that the doctrine of election, than which nothing is more clearly tauglit in Scripture, obtains. Hence tite special texts on which the Calvinist bases his thcology, are not only true, but have had a full and complete application.

The kingdom of God, we believe, is a spicitual kingdom, and when "set up" on this earth, will be composed entirely of spiritual beings, invisible, under all orrlinary circumstances, to men in the flesh." "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation, neither shall they say, Lo here, or lo there." The gospel church, we understand, is a part of the kinglom-now, that is, the kinglom in the embryo state; but the kingdom of God is not yet set up. on the earth, since the Devil is now the prince of this world. But the lingdom of God is to be set up, and Satan bound a thousand years (a prophetic thousand).

The prophetic measurenients, so often given in these papers, demonstrate (not so mach by the strength of each independent argment, though even thus they prove it conclusively, as by the wonderful harmony existing between arguments of so entirely rlifferent a chameter), that the kingdom ot God will be set up over this world, and "the powers of the heavens shaken;" that is, the spiritual powers, and Satan bound, within the next coming thirty-seven years. (I need not repeat liere, that these measurements prove that the second coming of Christ, which is in varions stages, is nove actually transpiriny, althougli his visible manifestation, in his glory, is not due, accordiug to these measurements, until near the close of this thirty-seven years.) During the ending of the "times of the Gentiles," that is, this thirty-seven years, which began this present spring, 1878 , there is, according to these arguments, to be a time of trouble among the nations such as this world has never witnessed ; and it is during this time of trouble the living Jews are to be restored to Palestine, and the fimal battle of the geeat day fought around Jerusalem. And at that battle, the visille manifestation of Christ (with all his saints) takes piace. The parousia, that is the actual presence of Christ, precedes his phaneroo, or appearing. And the parousia is to be "as the days of Noe" (Matt. 24: 37) ; but " when Clurist, who is our life, shall appear, (phaneroo, then shall ye also appear with him" (Col. 3:4). This is the word where it says Christ " appeared to Mary," " appeared to the eleven," and "appeared in another form unto two of them." The same word is also rendered shesv, "If thou do these things, shew thyself to the world" (Johun 7: 4, and 21:1). But phaneros is generally rendered manifest, or maniftsted, "For there is nothing lid which shall not be manifested (Mark 4: 22.) Thas we learn that when Christ shews himself to the world. or is manifested, "then shall ye also be slewn, or manifested wit: him in glory." Here then, when he comes with his saints, is the first manifeztation, or sheving of limself to the worl: "And then shall all tribes of the earth mourn, and they, not the church, slall see him coming in the clouds, with power and great glory." But at that time his saints, taken away during lis parousia, or individual presence, will be with him, and will be manifested, or scen in the clouds with him.

Bowin's chronology, shewing the ending of the 6000 years from Adam, in the autumn of 1873 , was preached for many years prio to 1873, and their terminus at that time, was clearly marked by the beginuing of this time of trouble upon which we have now entered. And "the day of the Lord, (now commenced,) is a day of trouble, a day of darkness, and not of light," (to the world.) The time of harvest, is by Christ called "the end of the age" (Matt. 13: 30). The harvest, or enul of the gospel age begon, according to these arguments, in the autumn of 1874. This also was clearly marked in several ways, one of which we will name: In Dan. 7; 26, we learn that the Papal organization, the " little lorn," was to lave its dominion taken away. (This occurred when that organization was abolished, and the Roman republic of 1798 organized). But the Ianguage of prophecy is, "They shall take away his dominion to consume and to destroy it unto the end." Now it is a fact, that although the dominion of that power was taken away at that time, still it las been so ordered that a gradual consumption of the papal dominioi, or states, property, etc., has been maintained during the present century, down to the last of Bismark's work of confiscation, in the autumn of 1874, or "to the end;" and since that time the papal power has been in the ascendant; and its worst living enemy, Bismark, is now working in harmony with the See of Rome. Again, according to another argument, preached and pubhished long before 1878, the work connected with the restitution of the Jews was due to commence in the spring of 1878 . And those familiar with the news of the day know what occurred this present spring betiveen England, with a Jew at the head of its government, and the Sultan, in reference to the Jews, and Jerusalem.
Jesus was set for the fall, and rising again, of many in Israel (Luke 2: 37). After the eald of the Jewish dispensation, at the crucifixion, that people were thirlyseven years in falling. Measuring from the spring of 1878 , where, according to these arguments, the gospel dispensistio: ended, (the work, so far as the gospel church is now concerned, being merely the " gather ing of the whate," "under the angels, who are ministering spirits,) that people are to be thirty-seven years in rising again. But as the Gentiles were put off, for three and a-half years (the hast half of the seventieth " weck"), alter the commission was given to "preach to all uations," for the gathering of the "wheat" out of the Jewish cliurcl!; so, accorting to these arguments, the work of restoring the Jews, although its beginning is clearly marked at this time, must be postponed for rimee and a-lialf, years, or antil the gathicring of the "whent" of the gospel church is accomplished, Hence, the real "rising again of Israel" can not begin uutil the autumn of 1881, at which date, the presumption is, that the gospel church will be taken away to meet her Lord. "And so shall be forever with the Lord." "And when Christ, who is our life, shall appear," slew himself to the, world, " then shall ye also appear with him."
After what is called, "the marriage of the Lamb," that is, the union of Christ and his chuych, made one with him, "even as he and the Father are one," the plan of redemption will be enlarged; and the water of life, now represented as "a well of water,", will become " the river of the water of life;" and while in the gospel age, "No man can come unless the Father draw him;" then, in the millcmnial are, the Spirit and the Bride will unite in the call, and "whosoever will may come and take of the water of life freely."

If the "well of water" imparted to us by Cluist means something which has to do with our salvation, the salvation of the " church of the firstborn," then the river of water of life, and the broader invitation has something to do with the salvation of another, and a larger class. The river of life, "the tree of life," the leaves of which are " for the healing of the mations," and which river proceds out from the throne of God, which throne is represented as being in the city, the heaventy Jorusalem, although a symbol like that of the "well of water" is clearly in some way for the cure of sinners, the "healing of the nations." And yet it is a representation which docs not belong to the grspel ane, where the way is narrow, and few fond it." And the whole teaching of Scripture is in hamony with this. Here the church are catled "espoused virgins" (2 Cor. 11: 2), there they are represented as "the bride, the Lamb's wife," here is the woll of water, there is the river. And it is then, in the millennial age, the Arminian texts, preaching free grace, have their application. In other words, the millemial age is a new dispensation, differing as widely from the gospel dispensation as that, in its turn, differed from the Jewish. Aml texts of Scripture belonging in one dispensation, with its pecriar conditiqus, make discord, when applied in another dispensation, and under different conditions; whereas, with a proper understanding of the three kingtom ages, the kingdom of God, as it existed on the fleshly plane, in the Jewish age, the embryo kinglom of the gospel age, and the fully organized spiritual kingdom of the millennial age, and all is lanmony. These three kingrlom ages appear also to be the solution of Christ's parable of the "three measures of meal."

During the Jewish age every thing tanght in the law was taught as if that was all of God's plan. They were to do this, and that, forever, etc. And yet although the Jewish church had not thie slightest iden of any such thing, the gospel age cane right along, and came at the time appointerl:"And when the fullness of time had come, Gocl sent forth his Son," (Gal. 4: 4.) It is true the prophets had foretold a future far more glorions than any thing in that dispensation; but they dit not understand it, and even supposed that the Messiah, and his glorious reign was to be merely a continuation of their own tleshly dispensation. Nor was it designe! that they should understand any thing of the rospel age, matil their own was actually being ended. So it has heen with the gospel church; the gospel to the Gentiles has been preached just as if this was all of Gol's phan. And during the gospel dispensation it las been right to think and work as if the plan of redemption had nothing beyond this age. And yet, when "the fu!lness of the Gentiles be come in," there is a mightier work tor the glorified chureli than has ever yet been done by the chureh millitant; the bride will accomplish more towards. perleeting her husband's house, than has the espoused virgin. And the water of life, instead of being a mere "well of water," will become a "river." "That in the ares to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace, in his kinduess towards us, through Christ Jesus." "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of Gual! IIow unsenrehable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out."

I can understand why the Jewish church were roused to bitterness when told that the Gentiles were to be fellow heirs; and that blindiness had happened to them, until the fulluess of the Gentiles had come in. But I can hardly comprehend the bitterness of some at the present day, when told that, not the Ilottentots, not the iciolatrous heathon, but they themselwes, the gospel clurch, are to receive "power over the nations" (Rev. 2: 26); and, minted to Clurist, are to do fiu greater works than ever Christ himself did, when on earth. That they are incleed to be as a city set on a hill; and that "the nations are to walk in the light of it." That the saints shall judge the world, that "S'aviours shall come upon Mt. Zion;" and that they are to have a hand in the work of "restoming all things." I shonld think the charch would begin to see, in the fearful reign of evil, so manifestly on the increase, that an accession of power was needed, before the church can convert the world, and that this necessity would make the m willing to investigate, and see if God has not revealed a phan by which it is to be accomplished. All must knoy that the Seriptures tearh that "all the ends of the world shatl remember and tum to the Lord; and all the kindeds of the mations shall worship before thee; for the kingrdom is the Lood's, and he is the governer among the mations," ( $l^{\prime}$ s. 22: 27, 28.) And that the kingdoms do not become his until the somoding of the seventh trumpet, at the end of the gospel agre, (Rev. 11: 15.) And let them also remember that the "little flock," the "few," out of "the many" who compose the real church, are foumd, on all occasions of a change of dispensation like the present, in the light, so as to "know what their Lord docth."

I am aware that we, like the Je'vs, have supposed that our dispensation, a period Panl speaks of as one of blindness to the Jews, "until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in," was all there was of the plan of redemption, while instearl of that tle light, as now coming ont, proves that this age is merely a preparatory step.

God is a God of order, and althongh the Scriptures cover the whole plan, hiey are designed to be understood only is they become due. And all that pertains to the resurrection, and other great events due at the end of the gospel age, "were closed up and sealed even to the time of the end." (Dan. 12: 1-4); hence the clurch have watched and prayed, and waited, not knowing the time of lier deliverance. But now that the end has come, and the events connected with the coming (parousia) of Christ are in actual process, though the " paronsia is to be as the days of Noe," and the world are to "plant and build, and. know not," still the church should be in the light. "Ye brethren, are not in darkuess that that day should come upon you as a thief;" Hence it is high time for them to awake out of sleep, and " buy eye-salve, that they may sec."

LIGI'T AND FELLOWSHIP.

"This, then, is the message which we have heard of him. and declare it unto yon, that God is light: and in him is no darkness at all. If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not speak the trutl. But if we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ, his Som, cleanseth us from all sin."-1 Jno. 1: 5-7.

According to the above statement, light and fellowship are inseparable. Fellowship is partnership,-and in this case, family re-lationship,-He the Father, and we the sons of God.

Light is the evidence of fellowship, and darkness is the evidence of not being the sons of God. Some seem to think they can walk in the liglit, and yet remain alnost, if not entirely ignorant of God's plans. What is light but God's revelation of himself and his plans? for what God is, can only be slown and known by what he does. Christ is the light of the world, because he is the exponent of God. "God so lowed the world that he gave his only begotten Son" etc. "God commendeth lis love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

Light or revelation has two plases, undeveloped and developed. What God has said is a revelation in one sense, even though it is not understood. That is what we mean by an undeveloped revelation. Many, if not all, the prophecies were of this clanacter when first given. They were not intended for, and therefore were not understood by the prophets themselves. (1 Pet. 1: 12). They contained the light, which when developed, was intended for the church, as oil contains in a latent state, all the light which can be produced from it. A burning lamp may serve to illustrate the process of developeinent of God's word to the church. Hence, Peter speaks of the sure word of prophecy, as a light that shineth. (2 Pet. 1: 19).

Revelation is not complete until it is understood. (To reveal is to nake known.) And it requires the same spirit of truth to enable the chureh to understand the word, as it required to enable the proplets to write it.

These thonglits and references may show that to be "in the light," or to "walk in the light," is not an abstract condition of mind, but such a condition as is produced by the knouledye of the truth. Christ calls the Conforter, "'lhe Spirit of truth;" and If is work is to " guide you into all truth." "He shall take of the things of mine, and shew them nuto you." "As many as aro led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of Gol.
"Ilenceforth I call you not servants, for the servant lenoweth not what his lord doetli ; but I have called you friends, for all things that I have heard of my liather, I have made known unto you."--John 15: 15.

These and many similar passages prove that light in our hearts is truth maderstrocd. Seed sown by the wayside is, "When any one heareth the word of the kingem, and understanleth it not; then cometh the wicked one and cateleth away that which was sown."-Matt. 13: 19. When it is uncerstool, it is so good the ememy cannot take it away. "He that reccived the seed into good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit." (verse 23.)

These thoughts have been sugqested by the writings of some who lave much to say about being. in the light, and who know nothing, and care as litile for God's revealed plan of the ages. The plan ot the $a_{y}$ es, (translated worlds in on New 'lestament), formed by and for Christ, is the plan of both revelation and salvation. Can God be known in any other way? To be ignorant of the truth is darkness." The friend of God knows what his Lord is doing. Abraham was the friend of God, and father of the fathful. The representative of all God's elect. "Shall I hide trom Abraham that thing which I do? (Gen. 13: 17). No: Alralam must know about the crisis at hand. 'Then Gorl's elect must know the truth, know what their Lord is doing-that is "present truth."

Aside from the general principles of right and truth, which may be properly regarded as eternal, God has always made known to his church, especial dispensational truths, adapted to the time in which they lived. A flood was coming. Noah,-Goil's representative man-was wamed. That was a present truth, and to him it was absolutely necessary. Believinor that truth sanctified him, (i. e. separated him from the world,) he obeyed and was saved from the flood.

Sodom was to be burned. Lot was warned. Building an ark would not do. He must flee from the city. He believed and obeyed a present truth. In A. n. 29, Messiah came, as introduced by John the Baptist. From thence, that presence must be recognized. That was a present truth which it was fatal to ruject. Lirght was necessary to fellowship. "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God." Jerusalem was to be destroyed. Jesus gave his disciples special instructions: "When ye sce Jecusalem encompassed with armies, know that the desolation thereof is nirh, then let them which be in Julea, flee to the momanas," etc. Obedience was the only sate course. To disobey would be to perish. If anyone imagines we are teaching that any of these calamities were eternal, thoy are mistaken. Tempural death-personally or mationally, was all that was involved.

The day of the Lord is coming. "The day of the Lord," says the prophet, "is a day of tronble." "All the lingloms that are mon the face of the whole eath shall be thrown down." God has given prophetic measurements, and much other instruction which indicate that we are nove entering the great day, and Jesus said, "Trake heed lest your hearts be overcharged, (lull of apprehension,) and so that day come upon you unaware."

To be ignorant of the instruction is to be in darkness, and on such, whoever they may be, or whatever their moral character may be, the day must come unaware, and Christ says to such it will bea as a snare.

Before the saints are traushated, and after they are gathered into the "bann," they pass through a scene of juldment where "A thousand shall fall at thoir side" etc., (l's. 91.) And all protected by the angels, shall escape the calamity. They shall stand. Why? because they have the truts.: for their shich. The truth will protect against error, and all its results, and beause of this, physical calamities also will be avoided, as in other cases in the past. Such necessity for the truth, it will be seen is no solitary case in Gol's dealings with his people; indeed, judring from what is revealed as to those other dispensational changes, it would be most strange if the mesent change should be an exception, and men should be as secure arainst impending calanities, without the present truth, as with it. 'Io build on Christ as a loundation, is right, and will secure salvation for the builder, in che time; but tenporal calamities can only be avoiled by the knowledge of the truth conceruing them.

And though the Bible teaches that none are rewarded with etermal life until "The world to come," and at the sounding of the seventh trumper, yet it as clearly teaches that some enter that state sooner than others, as the " First fruits unto God and the Lamb." To believe and teach that at the last generation all, building on Christ, are to be taken without regard to the spiritual stature, is to dislegard many statements of Scripture concerning the order of eveuts, aud to ignore the importance of Christian faithfulness and advancement.

Some shall be savel so as ly fire, suffering loss; but may we be of the namber who shall pass unharmed throngh the fire, because of the presence of one like unto the Son of God.

THE ATONEMENT.

I will not say much about the atonement now ; I have often said, I have never seen a theory that satisfied me. I say so still.

Brother Russell makes too much of the death, perhaps, in a certnin statement; and in a similar way I think your article makes too much of the resurrection.

I believe there is as yet an unevenled principle involved; so that to the Jew it is a stumblingblock, and to the Greek, philosophers, frotishness, but to the savel, it is the power and wisdom of Gool. The why is not made known, to my mind, in either article, nor in the Bible: I helieve in a sense, the Bible teaches substitution. But I never balieved in substitution in the sense in which you attack it mainly. The wrath of an ang ry God, I have always maintained, would no: have sent Christ,-Luve moverl hiin. But to me, the Bible teaches reconciliation by the death of his Som.

I much regret the entrance of the subject in the memid. I wait to see how God will overrule the evil for good. I ann grad we can all receive the benefit of his death, without understanding the philosophy of it, as we can reap the fruit of digestion, without its pisilosophy.
J. н. P.

Remahes my tie Ediror.-Our brother is most certainly right in saying that the Bible teaches the reconciliation of the world by the death of Christ.-"For if when we - were enemies, we were reconciled to Gool, by the death of his Son, muclu more being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life." (Rom: 5: 10).
As this is comparativly a new field of inquiry, I will preface the answer by remark-ing:- The suljects of the aronement, reconciliation, itc. although fully explained by the Scriptures, have been thought to be too mysterious for us to grasp, and so theobogians, and the church have accepted certain set worls and phrises, "death," "bloon," etc. and have been satisfied to belicue, without trying to understand what they believe; supposing that blind beliel', in some cases at least, was just as good as to try to understand the Soriptures.

Our brother would not be willing to admit that Chisist di: mont mullerstand that unreverted principle, or that he chid not know why he 'lied. If Clurist understoml it, and "All things which he has heard of his Father, he lins made known to us," then, ad-though it may not be given to the Jew, or Greek, "it is given to us to know the inysterics of the kingdom." And as to reading, belicwing, and not understanding, please notice what Jesus says, "When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understundeth it not, this is he which receiveth seed ly the wayside." And because there are mysteries in nature, which we do not comprehend, because we are left to ourselves. is a poor excuse to make for not understanding the plan of redemption, especially by one who clains to be led by the Sjirit, given to leal the gospel church into all truth. And more especially as our brother, with us, claims that, "The mystery of God, as hee hath declared unto his ser:vants the prophets," is now finishecl.

Tho explanation, by the apostle, of how we are reconciled to God by the denth of Christ, will show that it was indeed a stone of stumbling to the Jow, and foolishness to the matural in:m, becanse of its simplicity.

The seed of Abraham are never counted as, the world; and nowhere is it tauglit that thry were to be reconciled to Gorl. In all cases, it is "the world," "the uncircumcised," "the Gentiles," "، aliens from the commonvealth of Isracl," etc. Neither the word, uor the idea, is found in the epistle, to the Hebrews. And when the apostle's meaniny in the use of the worl, is understood, the reason for this will appear. (The word occurring in Meb. 2: 17, is quite a different worl, in the Greek, and occurs in only one other case. Luke 18: 13, and is then rendered, mercifal), "God be nerciful to me a sinner."

The meaning of reconciled, reconciliation, etc. as used in Eple. 2: 16, Col. 1: 20, Rrmm. 5: 11, 1 Cor. 7: 11, and 2 Cor. 5: 18, (being all the places where these words occur). is, that by the death of Clirist, the Gentile world were brought nigh to God; that is, withiu reach of his plan of sal vation. In other worls, by his death, the worlit were bronght from a state of enmity, into fuer with God, by a removeal of somethiag which kept them apart. I think all will admit the abonve expresses the fall and exact meaning. Now do not be surprised, for the recorciliny the vorld, the outside Gentile work, was nothing nure nor less, tian breaking down the "wail of matition" between them, and the Abrammic fanily; and which wall (the law), was the enmity. When that was taken away, bo and beholi,? the world was reconciled to crod. Remena-ber, reconciliny, was not, bcing lronght into harmony. or firiendship with God, for we were reconciled, while we were yet enemies. The law wous the enmity; it was taken away, and the emmity was gone; and it was the death of Christ, that broke down this wall ; and this was the reconciling of the world. And this simple fact is the mystery, "Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, . . . that the Gentiles shomld ise fellow heirs, an of the same boly," Eph. $3: 5$. "Wherefore remember that ye tooing in times prast Gentiles, . . . aliens from the commonwealth of Lsizael, and strangers from the covenamts of promise ; having no hope, and without Gool in the world. But now, in Christ Jesus, ye, who sometimes were afar off, are made night by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace (to make pence, is to reconcile), who lath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition. Having abolished in his flesh, the enmity, even the law of commandments contaned in ordinances, for to make in himself one new man, so making peace. And that he might reconceile muto (Gorl, in one body, by the cross; having slain the emenity thereby," (Eplic. 2: 11-16).

Then it was the cutting off of the Jew, from his special priviliges, or birthright as the seed of Abralam, which removed the enmity, and keconcilcel the world. "For if the casting away of them, be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead," (Rom. 11: 15).

The cross was indeed a stumblingblock to the Jew, for in his death, they fell to the level of the wordd, lost their birthright; and this transfer of the birthright, through, and beyond the wall, was bringing the covenant and promises of God down to the platform of the word, and thus reconciling God and the world. "Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, (riches indeed if it reconciled the worlil to (Gocl), how much more their fuhess." (Of this much more, we shall speak hercafter).

Here then were the facts; Gorl, by his oath, which ceuld not be broken, had given all things to Atraham, and his seed. Now the mystery was, IInw could the Centiles becone 'fellow heirs, and of the same body.' in other worls, how "Goll conld bo just, (keep his word to Ahraham and his seed), and a justifer of him that believeth in Jesus.' The plan of Nicolenus could not be alopted; they could not enter the womb of a Jewish mother, or be horm of a Jewish mother. But Cluist solved the mystery when he carried the birthright ontside of their nationality, by the sacrifice of his own body.

No wonder the apostle cries out, " 0 the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowletige of God."

When Christ died, all the race were comutel as dead; not alive, free from death, becanse he die $l$, but dead :-" Vor if one rlied for all, then were all dend. And he died: For all, that they which live should not hence forth live unt, themselves, but unto him which died for them, and ruse arain.
Wherefore if any mim be in Clusist, he is a new creature ' (2 Cor. $5: 14-17$ ).

The death of Christ destroyed his relationship to the Abrahamic family "according to the Hesh. Hence, when lie rose, born aydain, he was nolonger a Jelo. Aul being the real seed, and heir, le carried the birth-. right with hire, ousside the Jewish nationality, and so brough the world within reach of the promises; so that to become a legal heir, we, being comuted as dead in Christ's. death, have ouly to become new cratheres in him, to become heirs of Goul.

Then why did Christ die? That in the sacritice of his flesh, not only the Gentile world might be brought nigh, but that ail, both Jew and Gentile, migit be counted as dead, and so the new creation could begir.
If one dicel for all, then were all dead, says the apostle, and adds, "Wherefore, lienceforth know we no man after the flesli; yea though we have known Clurist after the flesh, henceforth know we him, no more." All are now deal; and if the second Addam had remained dead, eternal sleep would have been the doom of the natural man; "If; Christ be not risen, your faith is wain; ye are yet in your sins, and they that sleep in Jestis have perished.

But now is Clurist risen, and become the firstrivits of them that sleep."

The new creation conld not begin, until the first Adlam's race was dead; "First the natural, and afterwards that which is spiritual," was God's arriangement.

The law lad killed tha, Few, "For I was alive without the law, once; lont when the commadment came, sin revived, and I dieh. . . . O wretehed man that I am! who shall deliver me from this berly of "leath "? But how are the gentiles to he killol? in Chist's Adanic nature, I :mswer. Adam, means man of the earth. The lusbaud of Eve was nothing in himself, suy more than any other one man, only " lie was a figure of him that was to come" (Rom. $5: 14$ ). And the apostle teaches that Christ became the earth-man, when he took our nature for the suffering of death, and in lis death, the earth-man, or Adan's denth, se die. Remember, Aclam was but a figure, or type of Christ. And therefore as a representative character, Adam, means ihrist. And as all die in Christ's death, all shall be marle alive, in his life. "And he died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them and rose again."

We do not yet see how "abolishing in lis flesh, the enmity, even the law of commandments,' breaking down the middle wall of partition, and so casting the Jew down to a level with the world, which was the reconciling of the world to Gord, has any bearng on the doctrine of sulistitutiong an innocent victim to shield the simuer; nor do I see any "unrevealed principle." But I do see Christ "tasting death for cevery man;' 'the just for the minust." And what for? that he might carry out his part of the glorious work commenced in Eden, when his Father snid, "Let us make man, in our image, and after our likeness." And " we see Jesus, who was made a litte lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honor ;" and know "that he endured the cross, dispising the shame, for the joy set before hiin." And I love this bright side of the plan of redemption.

SUffering wite christ.

The condition given,upon which we may reign with Christ, and be glorified together with him, is, suffering with him here.

As so much depends upon our compliance with conditions, and such infinite interests are at stake, it becomes a question of vital importance to us, to know what it is to suffer with Christ.

Being in the closing scenes of the earthly career of the church, when she is preparing for graduating, as it were, the sulject comes to us with greater force than ever before, and we ought to understand it better than it could be understood in the past.

As suffering with Chirist, must mean to sufter for the same purpose, it is necessary to know why he sullered, If he is the head and the clatel is his body, and the body is to "fill up that which is Lehind of the aftictions of Christ," would not the plan be a tailure, without the sutfering of tho body?
He is the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but for the sins of the. whole world (1 John 2: 2). I apprelend it is for the sins of the world that the bolly is to share with lim, or "fill ull." So if he gave himself for the good of the world, we must be ready to give ourselves for the same purpose. He gave himself a sacrifice for sin, to condemin sin in the flesla : we are exhorted to present our lonclies a living sacrifice, holy, aceeptable to God, which is our reasourable service.

I know some may reject the ilea that the body is to complete the sacrifice for the world, but if reigning with him, and being glorified together, means to share with him, in reigning and glory; then sulfering with him, means to share in the sufferings. "It became him for whom are all things, and by whom are all thinus, to make the captain of our salvation perfee:t through suffering ; for both lie that sinctifieth, and they who are sanctified are all of one; tor whicla cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren."

Christ also suttered for us, leaving us an example, that we should walk in his steps. Is not the cluurch, or body, to be perfected, for the purpose of bringing the world unto glory? "For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." "For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the mimitestation of the sons of Gorl, . . . bectuse the creature itself shall be delivered from the bondare of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sons of Gol."

Jolum 1ith seems to teach the same idea; He says, I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. As thou hast sent me into the work, even soy have I sent them into the wortd. And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified through the truth. Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also that shall believe on me through their word, that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us; that the urorld masy nelieve thou hast sent me. And the gloy thou hast given me, I have given them ; that they may be one, even as we are one: I in them, and thou in me, that they may be male perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me and hast loved them as thou hast loved me."

He, for the joy that was set before him, -the whole plan of salvation-endured the cross, despising the shame; and is set down at the right hand of Grod; su we are exhorted to run with patience the race set before us. The temptations and trials he sutfered were not for limselfalone, but for others.

If we shall be faithful to him who hath called us; if we hold fast, firm nnto the end, we shall be made like him, "a royal priesthood; and having been tried in all points, we shall be able to sympathise with, amd deliver those who shail be tempted in the future dispensation.

How it exalts our sulferings and trials, when we comprehend the idea that it is for the same purpose for which Chuist sufferod. It enables us to press forward toward the mark of the prize of the nigh calling of Goxl in Christ Jesus. "laelorerl, think it not strange, conceming the firy trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing hap. pened unto you; but rejoice, inasmich as ye are partakers of Christ's sulferings ; that when his glory is revealed, ye may be glad also, with exceeding jny." 1 Peter 4: 12.

DEFINITE TMME.

The raids being continually marlo by this one and that, agrinst definite time, and aimed, of conrse, in the main, at this paper, when coming from certain sources, really eanse a smile, mingled with pity. One brother clains that although he preached definite time, in $184.3-4$, he has become wiser, and he can now turn his back on these definite prophetic measurements as if they were not a part of the Seriptures of truth; and "does not believe the time of the second coming of Christ is revealed."

This darkness, especially with the brother referred to, and which can make him " lraw back," and give up the whole sulject of "the time, and manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in the prophets dich signify," cones from not understanding the manner of the adveit. If he could see the whole network of evidence proving that the second coming of Christ actually begen in 1843-4, as surely as the tirst coming of Jesus begnan at his beretting and birth; and that the scond coming. like that of the first, has its various stages, he would not so readily let the little light on the definite time, question which he once had, be so easily extinguished. Nor would he be so rady to misconstrue and misunderstand the later plases of this movement of the "going forth to meet the Bridegroom." (Matt. 25: 1-13.)

No tather loves to be misunderstood, even by those for whose opinion he has little or no respect ; but it is especially unpleasant to be misunderstood by those for whose opinion he has rreat respect. I will therefore make as clear a statement of our position in reference to this subject, as language will admit. We bolieve the Scriptures teach that tine time of the advent of Christ, both the first, and the second, to "the sulferings and to the glory," was revealed to the prophets; but in a way they cond not understand, nor yet could the angels, (1 Peter, 1: 11, 12.) Lud the reason they cond not understand it, is given in Dan. 12: 9; viz. Becanse "the words were chosed up and sealed till the time of the end." Hence, Christ conld say, "Ol" that day and hom knoweth no man, no not the angels in heaven." And he conld say this at his first advont because " the time of the end" was then in the far future; and God had arranged that it should not be understood until "the time of the end." But when the "time of the end" snould come, the scal ivas to be broken; and, though "the wicked shall do wiekedly, and none of the wicked shall understand, the wiso shall muderstand," (verse 10.)

We clain, and think we can prove, that "the time of the end" has now come; and that therefore what no man or angel could know while "the worls were closed up) and scaled," can now be understond by "habes and sucklings;" having only that wiskom which cometh from above.

As the second coming, like the first, is made up of various staces, but as different trom the first, as everything else pertaining to the children of the promise, differs from the clispensation to the childeen of the flesh, so there is a point at which the first stage of the seconil coming begins. And the evidence that this first stage was due in 1843-t is exceeding char; in fact, notloing whilh we are to receive by faith, cond be more so. Onr wother, and thonsands of others, run well up to that point. But the wodd was not harned, there was no literal trumpet sounding in the sky, and Cluist did not "come in all his glory;" in other words, the whole series of events did not transpire in one eramd smash-1!p, at the first stage of his coming ; lence, the disappointment and drawing back. And our brother, like many others whor run well for a season, appears, on these things, to be away back, at least forty years belinind the present light, and where the seventh trumpet began to sound, and before "the mystery of God was finished" (Rev. 10:7).

The 1843-4 position was clear, strong and unauswerable. The "seventy weeks" of Dam. 9: 24, were fulfilled "a day for a year," and ended at about the time of the crucifixion. And these "ssventy weeks," or 490 years, "cut off" from the vision of the 2300 "days" of the previous chapter, left a remainder of 1810 years to transpire after the cud of the seventy weeks. This was the 1843-4 argument, and there was a power in it which few could see and resist. It is true there was olscurity over the last lialf of the seventieth week, in the "midst" of which Chirist " made the sacrifice and oblation to cense." But notwithstanding that obscurity, there were few who would make the simple calculation of 490 from 2:00, leaving 1810; and 1810 to a. D. 33 , reaching 1848 ; and turn away unmoved. The brother above referred to, staked lis reputation and his all, on the truth of this prophetic measurement; but Clywist did not come in all his glory, as we then expected, hence, supposing that time had proved the argument wrong, it was soon given up. And he, and many others, becoming discouraged, gave up all further investigation of the definite time.

Now let us look at the mamer of the advent, its various stages, and its peculiar character, in keeping with the spiritual sced, and perhaps even the brother can see that time did not overthrow that argument, but merely overthrew some of us, because of our entire ignorance in supposing that the advent was to be consummated in one grand and universal smash, instead of progressive stares.

The evidence is that the second coming of Christ begra in 1843-4. That then he left the IIoly of Holics, and tarried in the outer tabernacle thirty years. "And while the Bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept." In other words, they all got into darkness. At the end of that thicty years, a second stage of the coming was due, the one spoken of in MEitt. 24: 37; viz., his parmusit. "Bat as the days of Noc were, so shall also the parmensia of the Son of man be; for as in the days that were bufore the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the parousia of the Son of man be." (It will be nuticed that his prescoce is not complared to the flood, but to the "days of Noe," the "days that were before the flood. The second stage of the advent having trauspired, and during which period men lave eaten, drank, married, etc., and knew not, the next hing in order is the rapture of the saints, "Then shall two be a the field, the one shall be taken and the other left; two grimang at the mill, the the slail be taken and the other left."

Perhaps the brother may wonder how we know all this, how we can tell when Christ left the Minst Holy, and came into the outer tabernacle, and when his invisible aresence, or parousia was due; in other words, how we can tell what is transpining on the other side the vail. Our answer is, we have a penterraph, the long arm of which reaches to that within the vail, while the short arm is now on our table. And we know that the tracing of the shortarm, even to every jot and tittle, has its counterpart in "thie tabernacle not made witly hands." There was a definite order in every movement, both in going in and coming out of the high priest, unter the law, while making the atonement. And this is the short arm of the pentegrapla. Hence, I can walk by faith, and do not need to see on the other sille the vail; for I knew it is easicr for heaven and earth to pass, than for one tittle of the movements of the sloort arm to fail of having its counterpart at the other end of the line. "To the law, and to the testimony ;" this is our guide; and "the entrance of thy word giveth light."

But it may le objected, that although we do get the facts in rilation to the coming out of the liggh priest, his tarrying in the onter tabernacle after lie leaves the holy phace, until a certain work of blotting out sins, by the scapegoat is accomplished, still we do not get any lefinite measure of the time he was to tarry. True, we merely get facts, while our measurements come, not so much frum the law, as from the testimony. And "My two witncsses" are full of that testimony.
If the alvent people lad dug deep for truth, they neyer would hita made the mistake of looking for the coming of Clurist "in all his glory," at the end of the $2: 300$ days. Christ does not come in his giory until he comes with all his saints to the mount of Olives, after the nations are gathered about Jerusalem, and the battle takes place. (See Zech. 14: see also Matt. 25: 31.) "When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the saint angels with lim." 'This combination of hajios (saint), and anyelos (angel), occurs only three times in the New Testament, and is always associated with Christ's coming in his glory.

Unto two thonsand and three hundred days, the worl then is not in the Hebrew, shall "the sanctuary be cleansed," or margin, justifiel, is the statement in the propliecy. White our interpretation in 1843 was, "Unto two thousand and three hundred days, then Christ will come in his glory."
Now I will put it to the good sense of any one, whether or not "then shall the sanctuary be cleansed," might not mean somecthing very different from, the coming of Christ in his glory ; and if it might mean something else, whether it is not an act of wisdon to carefully examine and see what that something is, before giving up an argument whicli all alike admitted nothing but time could overthrow.

We then supposed the "sanctuary" was something to bo cleansed (justified) by fire. Under the law the sanctunry was cleansed, not by fire, but by blood; and not only the sanctuary, but every other thing was cleansed by blood, even the land, (See Num. 35: 33.) And the apostle teaches that, "It was necessary that the pattern of things in the heavens should be purified by (thes blood of bulls and goats) but the heavenly things themselves, with a better sacrifice" (Heb. 9: 23). Now we maintain that whatever is to be cleansed at the end of the 2300 days, must be cleansed by this better sacrifice, since the other method of cleansing is now done away. Hence, whatever "the sanctuary" means, it must be something of the "hecivenly" order; since earthly things were cleansed by the blood of bulis and goats, and only lieavenly things, by this "better sacrifice."
The primary meaning of sanctuary, is God's dwelling place. And we purpose to show that the sanctuary to be cleansed at the end of the 2300 days, means God's dwelling place,-"In wiom ye also are builded together for a labitation of God " (R.ph. 2: 22). And that this spiritual house, or dwelline place not only is to be cleansed, but that it is the only order of things to which this better sacrifice applies,

The word rendered "sanctuary," (Dan. 8:14), is koh-desh, the same worl also occurs in Deut. 33: 2, " 1 le shined finth from mount Paran. and he came with ten thousands of his (loh-desh) saints." "How long the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression, to give both the sanctuary, and the host, to be trodilen under foot? was the question to which the 2300 days is the answer. And in the explanation by the angel in the next chapter, we learn that "seventy weeks," is the measure of the part of the vision "concerning the daily sacrifice," while the remainder, relates to something else. Two things were to be trodden under foot, the sanctuary, and the host. The natural seed, are almost every whero called, "the host ;"-"And it came to pass after three days, the ofticers went through the host," etc. (Josh. 3: 2). And the oue who appeard to Joshua, said, "Nay! but as captain of the host of the Lord, an I now come." And the body of Christ is God's real dwelling piace, or sanctuary, every thinge else, so callech, and which has been trodiden inder foot, is but a sladow of the true. Now make the distinction between the people of God, the natural seed, or host, and the gospel clurch, or body of Christ. And Dan. 8: 13, reads thus, "How long shall be the vision concerning the daiiy sacrifice, and the transgression of desolation, to give both the gospel church, and the Jewish church to be trodden under foot? And he said unto me, "Linto two thousand and three handred days, then shall the gospel church be cleansed." And yet the vision itself, reaches "to the last end of the indignation" (Dan. 8: 10). And therefore reaches to the end of the times of the Gentiles, or until the host, Jerisalem and her children slatl cense to be trodten under foot, while the 2300 days only reach to the time when the cleansing of the sanctuary was due to begin. "IRepent, that your sins may be blotted out, when . . . he shall send Jesus Christ" (Acts 3: 19, 21). In the law, the high micst cane out of the most holy phace, just the last thing, when on lis way to come out to the people, but stopperl in the outer tabermacle ; in cther words, tarried, until a certain work of removing their sins, by meanis of the scaperoat, was accomplished. The blotting out or putting away of their sins being the last feature in the atonement. And accorling to Acts $3: 19,21$, the blotting out of our sins is the last feature of Clirist's atoning work, and is not due until he "sends Jesus Clirist." And "unto them that look for him, he will appear the second tine without sin unto salvation." But, as can be seen, there is the counterpart of the scapegoat (see Lev. 16), that is, the blotting out of our sins, to be fulfilled after the high priest starts to come out, and yot he tarries in the tabernacle, where no man is to be, (verse 17,) until that part of the atonement is completed. And this is what has been going on at the other end of the line, since the cleansing process commenced, at the end of the 2800 clays.

The length of time during which the higl priest tarries is found, first by prophetic measurements, and second, by the pattern dispensation. Christ tarried in his tab. ernacle of clay, just thirty years, at the first advent, between the first and second stage of his coming. Si, according to a number of prophetic measurements, he now tarries thirty year. Then, his personal supervision of the " harvest," or closing work of the Jewish dispensation required three and a half ycars. So, according to clear chronological and prophetic evidence, his parousia must be an equal period, during the harvest of the gospel dispensation ; which, three and a half years, terminated this present spring. But the translation of the chureh is not due, according to the same arguments, until the year 1881. And Christ does not come," in all his glory," until the battle of the great day; at which time he comes " with all his saints," to the monnt of Olives. And it is then "every eye shall see him"

We clain to be no more servants, but friends of the Bridegroom :-" Ifencefortl I call you not servants, for the servant knoweth not what his lord docth : but I call you friends for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known to you."

God help not only our brother, but all others who are still in darkness in relation to the time and manner of the advent, to anoint their eyes with cyesalve that they may see. The church is full of servants, and many of them faitliful servants of God, and who lave borne the burden and heat of the day, and their "penny" will be given them. But there is a "little flock" counted as " friends," and who are in the lirght, and know what their Lorddoeth. And this is the "mark of the prize of the high calling," for which we rum. God help us all to so run that we may win.

HOLINESS.

The doctrine of holiness as tanglit in the Scriptures is, we find, much misunderstood by Christ's professed followers. They seem not to realize that it is tausht in the word of God.-or apply it to others than themselves. Do you remember, beloved, you who are " turned from idols to serve the living God, and to wait for his Son from heaven," that " without holiness, no man shall see the Lord"? Do you remember, you who feel that you are called of God, that "God hatla called us to holiness" (1 Thes. $4 ; 7)$ ? and that Paul denominates those, " holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling."? Do you remember, you who feel that you are the servants of God, that as such, you are to yield your members servants of righteousness unto holiness"? Do you remember, you who are desirous of learning the will of God, that "this is the will of God, even your sanctification"? Do you remember, you who expect to have part in the first resurvection, that none but the holy will be of that company? "Blessed, and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection." Do you remember, the worl so frequently rendered "saint," means holy-: one? Do you remember, you who expect that "when he who is our life shall appear then shall ye also appear with him in glory," that all the company with him are saints, holy-ones? "at the coming of our Lord Jesus Clurist with all his saints." Do you remember, you who read the epistles by the apostles, that they are addressed to the saints, the loly-ones,-"To the saints at Epherus,' 'at Collesse,' 'at Phillippi,' 'at Corinth,' etc.? And only as you are saints, lave youra right te claim the promises therein, to yourself? Do you remember, yout whom God has blesser with much knowlelge of himself, his plans, and the riches of his grace, that the object of all this light and truth is to sanctity you wholly, and preserve you blameless unto the coming of the Lord, even as the Master prayed, "sanctify them though thy tauth, thy word is tanth." Do you remenber, you who hope to sit with him in his throne, that " he that hath this lope in him, purificth himself even as he is pure"? If so, what manner of persons ouglat we to be in all holy conversation and Godliness. "As he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all maner of conversation ; for it is writte:, Be ye holy, for I am holy " ( 1 Peter $1: 15,16$ ). What is it to be lioly, we will consider at anuther time.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Springwater, Sep. 25th '7s.
Dear brother: It is known to you, and many others, that we have of hate, had sore trials in the way of bereavements, which have been, under the circumstances, very afflicting. Our hearts have been made sad, for it has been to us a bitter cup. We do not feel to murmer, knowing that it is among the "all things," that work together for good, to them that love Gool, to "them who are the called, accorling to his purpose. The Lord does not willingly alllict; aud althourh things may seem mysterious, a time will come when we shall sce it was all for the best. No chastening is joyous for the time but grievious, nevertheless it worketh out the peaceable fruits of righteousiness to them who are exercised thercby. May the Lord help us to proftit by these trials.

We are truly living in a grand and awful time ; what a glorious event is about to take place, the " marringe of the Lamb;" his wife making herself ready; the ending of the world that now is, and the dawn of the world to come. To those who lave given these things an earnest and prayerful study, how very clear this present truth, seems to be.

The great light as now being published in the herald, is truly beantiful:-Hope for our race, the "groaning creation;" low it magnifies the love of God,-"God is love." And a theology that does not harmonize with that, we liave a right to question.

The promise to Abralum, "In thee and thy seed, shall all the families of the earth be blessed," as now being understood, is giorious. The seed being Cluristand his body, the Christ complete; which will bring about the great restitution of our race. And according to the evidence, the angels are now "gathering the wheat into the barn," the last condition of the churela, prior to transIation. The last half " week" of the har-vest-is now in process of fulfilment, as is clearly shown by the pattern, the closing work of the first house. As these two houses, symbolized by the cherabim, were to be "of one measure and one size," it follows, to make the parallels complete, that a half week is due, to gather the wheat of the second house, after their dispensation ends; as such was the case with the first house. This being true, what a glorions position we now occupy,-the kinglom about to be set up, that is to " break in pieces and consume all other kingedoms, and stand forever."

May the Lord bless in publishing the good news and glad tidings of the kingdom.

Yours in the blessed hope:

Dear Bro. Barbour:-It is a beautiful Sabbath morn; and not being where I can lave the privilege of meeting with those of like precious faith, my mind runs out after those I met with at Sjpringlield, C. M. It was a blessed privilege to me-and oue I never expect to forget while I tarry here. It was such a feast I do not often enjoy. It is not often we meet so many kiidired spirits-those that speak the same language and sing the same song. I did not wonder they felt to exclaim, beantiful, beantiful. Goil's plans are benutiful when understood. They are so full of love, and they are so harmonious. I do not wonder they are called a sony, and that none can learn that song but those that are redeemed (bought) from among men. These are the overcomers; they will be without fault, and in their month will be fonnd no guile (malice). My faith takes hold of the plan and promises of God more and more day by day as they open to my understanding. I teel that the Lord is leading me himself, and bringing me to a condition which is acceptable to liim. I feel the spirit of gatheriny togyether unto him more from day to day, as time passes by. I believe he gives his angels charse over me to keep me, and in their hands to bear me up, that no evil shall harm me, or destroy me. Truly it is as a sea of class (or a conclition of safety), mingled with fire (or judgment), for they are on every hand; and I think the people are beginniny to sce aud acknowledge it more than they have. And this is only the beginaing of trouble. What will the end be? And the world don't know they are in darkness. O liow I do pity them, and especially those that profess to love the Lord, and don't seem to care to know. They say peace and saftety, and sudden destruction cometh upon them. But there are some grains of wheat here and there. They will understand, and be gathered into the baru. How goom it is that the Lord lenoweth his own, and he will not suffer a grain of wheat to be lost. O what a blessed hope is ours. It is a foretaste of what is in reserve for the faitliful-those that overcome; and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith. I ain striving to get these truths before the profeseed people of God as opportunity offers. Some are Congregationalists, Methodists, Adventists; sume will read, but few seem to understand, or receive. They think they are all right, and don't care to search as for lid treasure. But God's will must be done, whether men will bear or forbear.

How I would like to see you and those I met with at S. I did desire to go with you to Alton, but I knew it was not Fother's will, and I could say, "thy will not mine be done." Wherever my lot is cait, there I feel it is his will I should be, whether it is to suffer or enjoy. I hope ycu will not think strange of my writing so long a letter to you; but when I tell you I am isulated and alone, as farr as our hopes are concerned, you know that separates generally, you will understand this is the only way I have to speak to the children of Gud, those that love these things. I felt to go with you in spinit to Alton, and I often think of you at your home. I never axpect to meet with you again this side of the kingdom, but I do expect to mect you there, and all of the dear chosen ones. The Helamis is a welcome visitor, for it is laden with good things, and it is all the preaching I have.

The Lord bless you as yon labor and bring before the people these blessed truths. Mary A. Bhiming. Alton N. H. Sup 23rd $\mathfrak{7} 8$.
Bro. Barbour: As we took up the herald of the mornivg, (which by the way, is very welcome to our honse), our eye fell on the last item, " Report of the campineetings in next number;" we thought, Why not send our report? We were right glad when the New York tent was again pitched at Altori Bay, for we are clepply interested in the plan of the ages, and God's wonderful love to our race.

We have a special interest in the bride, and believe she will be ready in due time when the marriage takes place, and the work of regeneration commences. We were greatly blessed in hearing on these themes during canj weeting, under the folds of your tent. We were grad to see so many intelligent people listen with such deep, interest as these truths were set forth, with clearness and earnestness.

Bro. Paton stopped with us after campmeeting, and preached the next Sunday in the Congregational church. A goodly number were ont to hear, and we think the meetings have resulted in removing prejudice; and some lave been lerl to inquire, Are these things true? while others are embittered, and for lack of argument endeavor by calumuy to injure the repuatation of those who belive these glorious truths. But God will "make the wrath of man to praise him."

We wonder, sometiunes, why the truth enrages people. It was the sume in Clurist's day. At one time he told the people two incidents, that they knew to be facts in their history, and "All they in the synaqogue were filled with wrath." (Luke 4: 25-28. But Clurist kept about his work. He is our example.

God bless you with strength and wisdom to work for Him.

> Yours, waiting,
G. and M. S. Thiton.

BOOK OF REVELATION.

WVith the end of the Landecean plase of the church, the scene opens on a new order of events. The kingdon of God, the throne, and its surroundings, as represented in Dan. 7, is brousht to view in chapter 4. And the "sea of glass," a condition into which we belive the church are now being gathered, is represented as "Lefore the throne." From the begiming of the th chapter, to the first verse of the 8th chapter, we understand to be events upon which we are now at the very threshold; and that they all belong to the next thirtyseven years, or time of trouble on the earth. Although we may have the measure, we cannot speak with certainty as to the details of unfultilled proplecy. The fourtli chapter seems to be the organization of the kinglom; the fifth, a preparation for the opening of the seven seals, which opening clearly belongs to the time of trouble and conquest of the nations, while the kinglom of God is breaking in preces the Gentile kingdoms (sce Dan. 2: 4t, Rev. 2: 20; $17: 1 \pm ; 19: 11-21$ ), the 7th chapter is the holling of these jullyments, to some extent, while Dan. 12: 1, is being fullitled, viz: 'Tho deliveramee of D:unil's people. Six of theso seals cover all this time of tronble, while the seventh is merely a "seven days silence."
